Prerequisites: POLS BC1001 “Dynamics of American Politics” or POLS W1201 “Introduction to American Government & Politics” or equivalent. This course has a limited enrollment of 25 students.

Course Description: This course explores seminal caselaw to inform contemporary civil rights and civil liberties jurisprudence and policy. Specifically, the readings examine historical and contemporary first amendment values, including freedom of speech and the press, economic liberties, takings law, discrimination based on race, gender, class and sexual preference, affirmative action, the right to privacy, reproductive freedom, the right to die, criminal procedure and adjudication, the rights of the criminally accused post-9/11 and the death penalty.

Requirements: Students are required to attend all classes. This class is conducted much like a law school seminar, and students will be required to actively participate. In addition to a final exam, students are required to submit two reflections on selected readings.
Learning Objectives: This course will provide students with a working knowledge of the legal method of inquiry, as it pertains to matters of constitutional interpretation and adjudication. Civil rights and civil liberties will be assessed in their legal context. Specifically, students will learn to:

1. Read and analyze judicial opinions.
2. Identify the various constitutional standards of judicial review.
3. Apply legal and analytical constructs to actual caselaw, while critically examining majority and dissenting judicial opinions for clarity, methodology, logic and persuasiveness.
4. Evaluate the merits and shortcomings of the major theoretical debates within the civil liberties discourse, both in oral and written presentations.
5. Analyze and assess contemporary scholarly and journalistic writings on civil rights and civil liberties by critically examining their claims and applicable counterpoints.

6. Grading: Grades will be calculated as follows:
   Class participation: 20%
   Written reflections: 20%
   Final Exam: 60%

Topics and Readings Schedule

Week One
Overview of the judicial system and court organization; introduction to key concepts of judicial review and theories of constitutional interpretation; how to brief a case.
